The borse power of the Model "T" tho rated as "twenty" is greater than the average "thirty" and equal to some of the "forty" cars. A "thirty" weighing 2100 lbs.—a much lighter weight than the average "thirty"-has yne horse power for each seventy pounds. The Model "T" develops one horse power for each 53.3 pounds of car weight. Horse power has no significance except when compared with the load to be carried-you'll agree with us on this.

We are also agents for thr OVERLAND and MAXWELE Autos-both first-class machines.
